

GDPR

May 25th 2018, a new data protection law was introduced throughout Europe, known as the GDPR (General Data Protection Regulation) - or the Swedish Data Security Regulation. For this reason, we want to inform you about what kind of information about you/your company that is stored in our systems.

Your details - such as name, e-mail address, address, phone number and title - are securely stored in our order and CRM systems. This in order to be able to complete future quotations and services in the smoothest possible way and answer any questions regarding previous assignments.

Since you appear in our order and CRM systems, you are also included in the lists we may use to send newsletters. These newsletters are sent by e-mail, to the specified e-mail address, at irregular intervals.

If you want to know what information we have saved about you, or If you want us to delete all personal information about you/your company, please contact us at info@southeast29.com
